The epic food stories of Mr. R, Part one

By Raphael Betty & Maria Papamargariti

From 1 to 10, how much would you say that you like Chocolate Banana porridge? Or haven't you tried it yet? Somewhere up in the north, in a tiny country of our small magic blue planet, called Luxembourg, there is a teacher. He loves Chocolate. He loves Bananas. But on top of all, he loves L(iving) I(n) F(ul) E(motions) with his students.

Are you ready to live their stories and taste their recipes?

Pages: 40
Size: 21*29
Ages: 3+

ISBN: 978-618-5676-11-7

MARIA PAPAMARGARITI

-So, woman, why are you writing?

- Simply because 'there is no greater agony than bearing an untold story inside you' (Maya Angelou, American poet, memoirist and civil rights activist, April 4, 1928 – May 28, 2014) Some stories are so unique that you feel you are offered the gift of life so as to share them. Some people are so unique that you feel you are offered the gift of life so as to meet them. My name is Maria. I love listening to stories. But foremost I love narrating them. This is the unique story of Mr.R who came to life after my encounter - in our Master's studies- with Raphael, a unique "cook" of recipes which show you how to look at life through a "food for thought" perspective.

RAPHAEL BETTI

Born and raised in Luxembourg, I had the privilege to enjoy a safe and loving childhood. After my high-school years I decided to pursue academic studies in education, did my Bachelors and later a Master in Multilingual Learning & Communication. It was rather late in life that I discovered my love for writing and creating, and that I found in Maria someone who shared this passion equally with me. This project brings together what we both love: writing, inventing stories, and combines it with the essence of all life on this planet: food.

The entrepreneur Anna Lazopoulou was born in Thessaloniki. She lived the first tender years of her life in the province, in Kilikis, which was then a very small town. She studied "Lingue e letteratura straniera moderna" at the University of Bergamo in Italy. She works in the family business of car parts. She created with her team an innovative free press magazine, Soferina, with a central goal of the female driver and with interesting presence on the internet. She inspired and produces in her beloved Thessaloniki Monzouzou, leather bags, with handmade embroidery, unique each one in her design. Monzouzou move stylists and decorators and a wide buying audience worldwide. Her journey through the difficult field of spare parts trade, as well as her origins and experiences gave birth to the need to express and transfer her experiences to the fourth generation of her family. This was also the occasion for Annie to be born. With the disarming simplicity of a little girl and her early commercial thinking we travel to the exciting world of entrepreneurship discovering through real stories everything that someone who will deal with the world of business needs to have in mind.

The Colony of Souls

By Magda Kaprianou

Love is madness. It seduces you. It takes you where reality fades away and is replaced by what others hope and expect from you. How tragic! But there is also the other side. That of the beast, the wild, lust and love. This is what creates wounds and trauma! But, stop and think "what does it take to make your wishes come true"? Two different stories, two different worlds, two different cultures that somewhere in the middle intertwine and mix, taking and giving clues and advice to each other. The protagonists are life and love.

Annoula - True Story

By Nancy Kalfoudi - Papakou

Her motionless blue eyes sometimes hid behind the fiery blonde curls of her fringe that she pushed back with the back of her right hand, sometimes they sparkled with joy as she faced us smiling. She had the same eye color as her father. She was not black or tawny after the Greek pattern: her whole form had that pale light which we often meet in many parts of the Evros beyond the shores, which always made her stand out.

As soon as she saw us, the kids,, she would invite us to sit next to her and began to tell the endless stories of her adventurous life, as you will learn from her through the pages of her book.

This was "Annoula" whose dream was to become a "teacher", like her godmother and aunt Maria, because she really wanted to help and offer to everyone.

This was and remained for all of us our Annoula!

Mrs. Artemis Rizari

By Nancy Kalfoudi-Papakou

The narrow limits of society in post-modern Greece were not able to keep Artemis captive on her island. She thought that education was the key to her dreams. Then she worked hard to build relationships and business contacts, so that in the end she succeeded.

You hold in your hands a very useful book not only for young men and women who spread their wings to fly in life, but also for the older ones who, shaking their heads now, wish they had done things like Mrs. Artemis Rizaris.

Hannah's Game

By Vana Koutsou

Another night in Georgiana Quinton's unsavory life. An unexpected phone call from New York City. Her best friend, Hannah Walsh, is dead by a lethal jump from the 20th floor of the building where she was working as a journalist, at Clarity newspaper. Everything leads to suicide but Georgiana has a different opinion. Who were bothered by Hannah's articles? Which political figures were attacked by her journalistic arrows? What investigations she was up to before her tragic death? In a very mysterious way, Georgiana finds Hannah's laptop, with a weird online game that she was playing before her death. She decides to dive in and play the same game as her friend. But, there is a catch. The online horror game is experiential. It makes Georgiana go through some extremely frightening and unique challenges that will test her limits, in order to win and discover the truth. Her biggest fears come alive and jump out of the screen, ready to devour her. Will Georgiana manage to overcome the dangers and discover the truth behind the death of her beloved friend before the game's maze swallows her once and for all?

OLYMPISMUS (BILINGUAL EDITION)

By Theodoros Mallias

The book aims, with its educational and cultural content, to revive the Olympic vision of the great educator Pierre de Coubertin for Peace, Democracy, Liberty, Equality and Fraternity, as well as to cultivate "excellence" through the "noble rivalry" and "fair play". It is 400 pages long and is divided in five sections, like the five Olympic cycles.

Section 1, A detailed reference to the meaning of Olympism and the Olympic Games.

Section 2, It records the history of the Olympic Games since the beginning and the course of the timeless symbol of Olympism, the Olympic Hymn.

Section 3, It scientifically approaches the ideological and materialistic dimension of the Olympic Victory.

Section 4, It analyzes the moral value of participating in the Olympic Games, projects the spirit of Olympism and promotes the Olympic Ethos.

Section 5, It highlights the life and great work of the lyricist of the Olympic Hymn, The Greek poet Kostis Palamas.

His poetic masterpiece is also visually presented in the book with pictures of paintings by very important artists.

ASIA MINOR 22

1922-2022 100 YEARS OF MEMORY FROM THE ASIA MINOR CATASTROPHE

By Dogkas D. Demosthenes

Asia Minor and Pontus, Cappadocia and Cyprus, and the Caucasus, Kallas, our brothers, have been rendering their garments throughout time... that we are all descendants of Greeks! But even if we are separated by thousands of kilometers, even if we count centuries since we were expelled from our lost homelands, we are united by the Meanders in costumes and ornaments as well as by the common roots of our own language. We are united by the customs, dances, songs and toponyms that invariably stand and hold well in the world throughout the years! Persecution has no eyes! Persecution is faceless... It separates mothers and children, old and young without discrimination! As he rushes past, he sweeps away everything in his path!

HEROES DESCENDANTS 1821-2021

200 YEARS FROM THE GREEK REVOLUTION

By Dogkas D. Demosthenes

The four hundred years of slavery of our Greek Heroic ancestors seem to all of us like four hundred long and high steps, which Greece, with a body full of wounds from the Turkish shrapnel, climbed alone one by one in order to reach the light of freedom again as a martyr. But, those years are gone forever. Now you can hear the signs of the world ringing loudly and madly, two hundred years continuously, together, in honor of Greece, which is now free through the great sacrifices of our entire Nation !
